DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Specifically, the disclosure does not mention the substrate to be metallic, amorphous metal, or polymeric.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 and 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sherman et al. (US-2002/0177858). Sherman discloses a structure for hair removal comprising:

Regarding claim 1, a substrate (14), a surface of which includes a plurality of protrusions (12) defining surfaces collectively forming adjacent peaks and valleys; a plurality of abrasive members (22) projecting from at least one of said surfaces for progressively abrading hair (para.0010) from a hirsute surface as said hair removal surface is drawn there across.

Regarding claim 2, said protrusions each define an approximately triangular cross-section having an apex (fig. 2); and wherein at least a portion of said apexes are coated with a lubricious material (para.0241 & 0270).

Regarding claim 3, said protrusions each define an approximately triangular cross-section having a tip portion (fig. 2) formed from a lubricious material (para.0241 & 0270).

Regarding claim 7, each of said protrusions is pyramidal and defined by at least four inclined surfaces (fig. 2); and wherein said abrasive members project outwardly from each of said inclined surfaces.

Regarding claim 8, said protrusions are arranged in at least one row (fig.1), with each protrusion being elongated and defining an approximately triangular cross section having at least two generally opposed inclined surfaces (20); and wherein each of said inclined surface includes a plurality of said abrasive members (22) projecting outwardly therefrom.

Regarding claims 9 and 10, at least a portion of said protrusions define a lubricious tip portion (fig. 2).

Regarding claim 11, each of said protrusions defines a sharpened edge (fig. 2, 22 or 26).

Regarding claim 12, a substrate (14) having a plurality of protrusions (12) defined by inclined surfaces (20) defining adjacent peaks and valleys; a plurality of abrasive members (22) projecting outwardly from said inclined surfaces each adapted to abrade hair (para.0010) from a hirsute surface; and a portion of said peaks being formed at least in part by a lubricious material (para.0241 & 0270).
